Our first picture this month is of the true head of our household—our cat Brenwyn who is named after a Celtic Goddess. She got the goddess part down to a T. Dogs have masters, cats have staff.

Last month I put in a picture of wild iris. The second picture is of one of the beautiful horses that was in the field of wild iris. Our third picture is of a wild flower called Prairie Smoke.

I have an interesting story to tell. On the morning of my first doctor's appointment after the surgery on my wrist I had a dream. In the dream I had waked up and was sitting on the side of the bed. The cast I was wearing slid forward to the tips of my fingers and then slid completely off. I was tempted to take it off, but I pushed it back up on my arm. It slid forward again and fell off.

I had a doctor's appointment on August 7 to, hopefully, get the cast off. On the morning of July 31 I woke up and sat up on the edge of the bed. My cast fell forward almost to my finger-tips. I had been having trouble keeping it in place. I remembered the dream that I had, so I gently slid the cast forward and it came right off. I was amazed because I didn't think that could really happen. I slipped the cast back on and, just like in the dream, it fell off and would not stay on. I called the doctor's office, said "My cast fell off" and the receptionist went into drama mode. I got an appointment that afternoon and, a week ahead of schedule I got a brace. My wrist and hand are very happy with the release from the restriction of the cast. After just two days I could almost make a fist and I could touch my thumb and forefinger together. My acupuncturist started treatment directly on the wrist on Friday after the cast fell off. The power of the energy surging through my hand, wrist and whole body was huge. I find these changes exciting, because I know that if I can have these changes anyone can.

I feel like St. Germain gave me that dream to help me recognize when it was time to get out of the cast.

I have had many people over the years ask if you can feel the energy from the CDs that St. Germain does. As we have progressed with the Teachings this year I am amazed at the changes that I have experienced and have had numerous reports from others that they are experiencing shifts that are very powerful. I have noticed over the last two or three weeks a feeling of agelessness that is new and different. It isn't so much physical as deep within, but it feels endless and hope filled. The changes that we are being called to make are not anything that we can decide to do and I am finding the outcomes to be far more than I might have imagined. Surrender sounds like a very innocuous word, but when you get into the total changes that are called for it seems overwhelming. It doesn't bring bad or scary things, but it pushes us completely out of our comfort zone, all the way outside of the box. If you haven't had the experience of the Teachings that St. Germain is offering this year they really help us to understand what is going on. It just might be worth your while to check them out. The deep healing power of the Master is there to experience again and again as you listen to the awesome wisdom that he brings. CDs are $15 for each set—Teachings or Q&A.

It is $25 to call in one time or $40 for both sessions each month. Postage and handling are separate.

If you have never read Ayn Rand's book "Atlas Shrugged" it is amazing reading—well done and extremely timely, even though it was published in the mid-fifties. It is a book that brings up many questions, but also offers answers for your consideration. It is an excellent blend of the mundane and the quality by which Master's live. St. Germain has suggested that he assisted in the creation of Ayn's works and certainly I can sense his fine hand, not in absolutes, but in directions to follow and those not to pursue, as well as His blazing vision. If you have read it perhaps it would serve you to read it again in these times about which it was written. Ayn is exceptionally detail-oriented even though her object was not to attempt to imagine what 2016 might be like altogether, the vision of where the United States could potentially go was certainly there. It is for us to pay attention—"The they that should do something about things is US!" It isn't about stopping them or moving them in a different direction or taking things into our own hands, but getting clear within ourselves "What am I contributing to where we are going by where my focus lies?" There is a vast difference between surrender and submission.

Rainbow Center News

Our group for September is "The Virtue of Selfishness". Ayn Rand wrote about this many years ago, expressing a most unpopular idea that would change the direction of the world if it was considered. For eons people have been encouraged to work hard, sacrifice and above all think only of others. Ayn Rand took a long, hard look at the code that says everything is based on need rather than personal worth, but St. Germain takes the whole concept to an understanding that is not designed totally by the mind, but discovered in the vast wisdom of our true selves. St. Germain has said all along that if you do not know what it feels like to receive, giving, giving, giving will only trigger a sense of sibling rivalry and resentment that "You'll get your rewards in Heaven" does not ease. Selfishness is after all self-interest. You are the most important person in your life and as you care for yourself in Love the Love becomes the guide to a deeper understanding of what it is to care for others. In a world filled with struggle this does not seem possible, but self-fulfillment shows clearly how you may ethically fulfill others rather than passing laws to deny brilliance by stating that anything that anyone creates should benefit everyone without consideration. The group will be at 2 p.m. at the Rainbow Center for the Humanities, 177 N. 4th St. Lander.

Our September Teaching with the Master is "Under the Dome: All Escape Routes from Self are Closing"

The popular TV series based on Stephen King's book provides an excellent parallel to our current times on the planet and how meeting ourselves is viewed by the EGO. Even though we are coming home to the best of ourselves, we have been taught that self-awareness and self-understanding are immoral behavior. Somehow we should just know to treat others well without having fully allowed the experience of receiving for ourselves. Love calls us home to the God-centered awareness that waits within us so that we can fully live in oneness without outer control. This Teaching will be on the second Wednesday, September 14. The Q and A will be on the fourth Wednesday of September. Both call-ins will begin at 7 p.m. Mountain Daylight Time.

ASTROLOGY

NEW MOON-September 5

This New Moon in the sign of Virgo calls us to a harvest of the truths and virtues of our lives. It is time to cull out the waste and value the fruitful in each area of our existence. Work because you love it, not because it has to happen. Forgive the drudgery of life and fill up with the effervescence of joyful service.

Chiron sits in opposition with this New Moon and offers assistance in healing long-standing issues. We are called to make shifts from the dualism of the old order to the more unified awareness of the changing times. Chiron is a symbol of bridging energy. Its orbit moves between Saturn, representing the limits of the physical plane and Uranus, which is the gateway to the metaphysical realms. The myth that Chiron was born of Saturn and a nymph further illustrates the blending of the physical and other than physical worlds. The word “heal” derives from the same cognate as the word “whole”, signifying that healing happens through acceptance and integration. When Chiron was discovered in 1977 it brought about an advent of a new archetype into the collective consciousness that is being underscored by emergence of the esoteric traditions. Many developments have come from this—alternative medicine, divine feminine consciousness, changes in psychology and more community awareness. Chiron’s transit through Pisces (2010-2019) is bring an access to our intuition that has not been so available to us before, thus causing us to allow deeper compassion and awareness of higher-dimensional realities. The previous passage through Pisces by Chiron was in (1960-69) and it coincided with the last Pluto/Uranus conjunction. As Uranus now squares Pluto, Chiron once again urges us to “make peace not war” and honor the ultimate value of all life. Chiron forms five trines to Saturn in Scorpio between November 2012 and August 2014, and three trines to Jupiter between August 2013 and May 2014, changing our perspective on time and money, partnerships of all kinds and personal power, and our relationship to nature and our spirituality. Neptune’s opposition to Ceres at this New Moon makes the emphasis on the themes that much greater as we reconsider our oneness with nature and the grander opening to our feminine aspects. Juno’s opposition to Mars in Leo and square to Saturn in Scorpio direct us to redefine our rules on relationship and power.

Mercury, traditional ruler of Virgo, represents how we communicate, rationalize, absorb, process and share information. From the 14-19 of September Mercury joins Jupiter, Pluto and Uranus in a grand square which is that much more dynamic because it is in cardinal signs. This increases our scope to take in the bigger picture, share new ideas and allow ourselves to move beyond the limits of old perspectives that have bound us. We are totally at one with all things. We communicate with the cells of our bodies and the galaxies of outer space. We transmit and receive information from our physiology, feelings, intuition, other beings, Earth and the whole of the Universe. This grand cross expands our awareness of what it means to “live outside of the box”. St. Germain is bringing through information that is very helpful to us in the considerations of all of the new technology of the human body, mind, spirit and emotional being.

Consider yourself from a totally new point of reference—Love. Change your mind and you can change the world. Continue to see as you have always seen and you may miss the wonders that are occurring all around you. “The good/God that you desire exists right at the tips of your fingers just beyond the veil of your disbelief.”—St. Germain

FULL MOON—September 19

This Full Moon in Pisces puts an emphasis on where we require to blend logic with empathy, discernment with compassion, physical “reality” and divine perception. The glyph of Virgo is a blending of M and V for Maria Virgo. Mary is a vestige of the pre-Christian Goddess. The Virgin represents the divine feminine and the bringing of the Christ/Spirit into the Earth plane. Pisces glyph, two yoked fish swimming in opposite directions, symbolizes the overcoming of duality. We are immersed in the ocean of creativity, appearing to be both real and illusion, temporal and eternal, a unique individual and an inseparable part of the universe. We are being brought to see that there is so much more to us than we have allowed ourselves to accept. We are so much more than a physical form or what our five senses define. We are reminded that we are the eyes and fingertips of God reaching into the densest, darkest, seemingly most separate places, bringing light, awareness and new forms into existence.

We are increasingly being shown by the movement of the planets that there are transformations going on that we cannot control. This Full Moon brings the essence of Venus and the weight of Saturn together with the North Node in Scorpio just before the Full Moon peaks. We are directed to really see where we are still judging ourselves and others from limited physical perspectives. This conjunction shows us that the power of Love is Love and Truth, not domination and deceit. Saturn makes the third of three sextiles to Pluto on September 20, intensifying their already close relationship, since Saturn and Pluto are in mutual reception: each transiting the sign that the other rules. This supports our readiness to let go of old patterns and limits even more as Pluto ends its yearly retrograde on September 20. It is time to take a big step forward in our evolution. The mythological aspects of Pluto include association with riches and wealth. When we confront our fears, we discover gifts and strengths we did not know we had. Revelation!

On September 22 at 1:44 P.M. PDT we celebrate the second equinox of the year when the length of the day and the night are the same. In spring the focus is outward into increasing light. The fall equinox begins a turning inward as the light decreases. The Equinox and Solstice points are highly charged points to set intentions and make rituals, prayers and ceremonies. They open connections to the metaphysical aspects of the Old Ones, the Mystery of the Ancient ways that are being brought into our awareness once more as we remember the power of our most spiritual selves.

This Full Moon closely squares the Galactic Center at 27 degrees Sagittarius, reminding us of our connection to the cosmos and each other. Life is waiting to reveal its most treasured secrets. You are the explorer, the Master who will discover them deep within yourself.

CRYSTAL CORNER

THE CRYSTAL CORNER

A big hello to all of you and a Happy Birthday to all you Virgos! As summer wanes, although the heat tells us otherwise, I find I'm rather in limbo. I feel like I'm marking time, waiting for something that is totally nebulous. And I won't go into how I'm sleeping erratically! Oh, well, I guess it is something we will all have to get used to. As I am vegging and/or napping, I'm tapping into some of the things that have been most impactful in my life.

Years ago, I was working in Richmond, VA and staying with a dear friend. One evening she invited me to go to a meeting of an astrological group. I really love doing that sort of thing as it gives me the opportunity to meet new people and learn new things. As the meeting started, the moderator of the group said that we would begin with a guided meditation. It was a pretty basic meditation where we would follow a sunlit path into the forest where we would meet a spirit guide or entity who would give us a message or gift to bring back with us. Now anyone who knows me knows that I am not enamored of guided meditations. I'm not sure where that comes from but it is an issue with me. But seeing as how I was there, I settled in to walk the path, not expecting a lot. I really was enjoying the walk. It was shady and cool, a beautiful forest. Suddenly I looked up to see this entity coming towards me on the path. He was tall, very black and beautiful, wearing what I would describe as a gossamer cloak and hood, rather like butterfly wings in texture and pastel coloring.

He carried a white ivory box with filigreed cutouts that glowed magical green. What a magnificent being! As he reached me on the path, he held out the box for me to take. I don't recall that he said anything out loud but I knew I was to open the box. As I lifted the lid, the most beautiful emerald appeared. Energetically it looked very large to me. What an awesome gift! And then, I was in a room full of people at a meeting, my perception of guided meditations changed forever!

After I was home in Wyoming, I began to get some information about this entity. His name is Izati and he is on the council of 400 beings who oversee the universes. I had never heard of this council, so this was new. I was also told that many of the others on that council would not appear to be as beautiful to us. But that is not the end of the story.

Two or three years passed. At the time, I was receiving a catalog from The Greenwich Workshop which sold all kinds of artwork. As I was leafing through the pages, I spotted Izati in all his glory. "It's him, it's him", I yelled. I bought the print and had it framed and it has a prominent place on the wall of my center. The title of the print is 'Night in Day' and is as complete a likeness as one can do in this physical world.

This etheric emerald has taken me through some rough times on my path. You might even say it has saved my life several times! I am so grateful to have had such an awesome experience. And I love emeralds!!

The lesson I learned from this experience is to let go of judgment. Had I not decided to participate in this meditation, think what I would have lost. Pay attention to the things you are resisting. What are they telling you about you?? Sometimes the road is rocky and life seems hard but pay attention and you will be given the tools you require.

For more information about the stones or if you would just like to visit, please contact me.

For those who have participated in Crystal Healing I and would like to take the Advanced Crystal Healing class, I have scheduled September 28 contact me for a flyer for either workshop or to sign up.

TAROT TALK

Our Tarot card for this month is the Star.

The Star symbolizes the law of luminosity. Shine like a star. You are the light. Self-esteem comes with recognizing the star that you are. Self-recognition brings attainment. You are seen as a star by others by acknowledging your own star quality.

Standing in the star shower, receive inspiration from the heavens. Your divine mind is connected to the stars. Follow thoughts that are uplifting, imaginative, progressive and inspiring. You are a guiding light to others, a way-shower. Help others reach their star. It is not by words, nearly so much as by example that you show them.

The Star is symbolized by the Goddess Kuan Yin who, like the Aquarius water-bearer, is a servant of the universe. With compassion, pour out your life-giving waters and radiate your light into the darkness to nourish and nurture the dry, barren and needy.

The shadow side of the Star shows up when you forget the beauty of your own special self. When you turn away from the starlight you lose the luster of the recognition of your glow. You are too far from your light to assist others or help yourself.

The Star is a card of cosmic wish fulfillment. How much good can you allow in your life? When do you turn away from the good and stop shining your light into the World? You achieve what you wish for by being open and receptive in an ongoing way. Don't give up on your dreams because they take time to develop. When you draw the Star get ready for exciting changes in your life. Set expectation aside and Be Amazed!

Our Rune for September is ANSUZ .

And still the waters rise
 Crossing the deeps.
A messenger brings
The promise of new life unfolding.
 Oh Ancient of Days
May the beauty of our intension
 Shine upon our faces.

The keynote here is receiving the messages, signals gifts. Even a timely warning may be seen as a gift. When the Messenger Rune brings sacred knowledge, one is truly blessed, for the message may be that of a new life unfolding. New lives begin with new connections surprising linkages that direct us onto new pathways. Take pains now to be especially aware during meetings, visits, chance encounters, especially those from whom you feel special messages are emerging.

The Rune of Signals is associated with Loki, the ancient trichster from the pantheon of the Norse gods. He is the heyohkah of the North American Indian, “a mocking shadow of the creator god,” the bringer of benefits to humankind. Even scoundrels and arch-thieves can be bearers of wisdom. When you draw this Rune, expect the unexpected: The message is always a call, a call to new life.

Signals is the first of the thirteen Runes that make up the Cycle of Initiation—Runes that focus directly upon the mechanism of self-change—and as such, addresses your need to integrate unconscious motive with conscious intent. Drawing it tells you that connection with the Divine is at hand. For Anxuz asks you to explore the depths, the foundations of life, and to experience the inexhaustible wellspring of the Divine in your nature.

At the same time, you are reminded that you must first draw from the well to nourish and give to yourself. Then there will be more than enough to nourish others. A new sense of family solidarity invests this Rune.

Nancy will be back next month! Check in for great information.

ST. GERMAIN'S MESSAGE

Beloved Masters, each passing day reveals more conflict and confusion as the evolutionary shifts are disturbing the finite mind. Much of the consensus on the planet has resolved to “If I want it and I like it I should be able to take what I want without question”.

A man who held three young women in bondage for ten or more years defended himself by saying that he was only following his natural sexual instincts. He avowed that there was harmony in the home. This is an extreme divorce from personal awareness, but this tendency is becoming more prevalent on the planet. The “poor” are fighting harder than ever to get what they say they deserve. The rich are using greater cunning of the legal system to show that they have complied with the law (which may have been altered or placed on the books on the day of compliance—“after all what do people really know of the laws that are passed or the implications on their lives those laws carry, if put into affect?" Consider the contradictions, as people elect officials to all levels of government expressing trust by their vote, yet not really knowing the person's intentions once they get into office. Often the popular opinion sways the masses who want change, but believe that it is up to someone smarter than they to figure out how the changes will be made. People know what they do not want, but have little or no idea what they do want—really. They just don't like what is happening in the moment. The trend to regulation of resources so that no one must do without can lead to unbelievable consequences as more and more people take without being willing to contribute.

The Plutonian energy influencing the planet makes death and dying a strong force of the EGO and many souls are feeling a need to kill without any clear reasoning other than vague references to Maroni's Law "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth". Young men inflamed by the blood-lust of war who will kill and maim others in retribution for offenses against their race, religion or beliefs, think that they are totally justified by a god created in the image and likeness of the human EGO. Men kill (physically or otherwise) other men "to protect their rights, their goods or their family" as though nothing else is as important on the planet but what they deem valuable. Meanwhile, they discount those same people and goods (they hold so dear) when their own desires seem more important in the moment.

Spirit directs through clarity, Ego through foggy ideals that are worthless except to prove a point in the moment. All must meet everything that they have ever created and have the ultimate courage to forgive themselves, rather than blame others. Destruction in the name of God is the Supreme contradiction. Love does not murder its creation. Only a deity created in the image and likeness of man would punish or seek to destroy humanity. As you remember that you first came to the Earth plane with an untarnished perspective of all creation, you will begin to return to the sacred connection with all things, that has always lived deep within you.

There are many on the planet who have come to identify with the intellectual concept of Objectivism which believes that what a man produces and what he deems makes him happy are the sole reason for living. If you are making money and obtaining all that you desire then you have fulfilled your reason for being. The issue with this idea is that there remains an unfulfilled hunger that neither money nor EGOIC desires can feed. There has always been a longing to remember the connection to Spirit and the fact that the EGOIC intellect refutes that, simply does not make it go away. There is a point of Objectivism that is true. When one loves his or her own creations and is willing to value them as worthy, including receiving compensation for that worth, the life is truly fulfilling. Nothing of a purely mental, physical or emotional nature alone can replace the desire for belonging that all seek to find, even if only briefly now and then, because the permission of the social cast system has nothing to do with intrinsic worth and value. Pride and Prejudice are value judgments of the elitists who would create a world of limitation and enslavement and avow, as they always have, that people have to be protected from themselves and only a chosen few know what is best for everyone else. Dearly Beloved Masters, the fallacies of inhibiting the brilliance of any creator because of a fear that their creation might shine brighter has been a mystery to children of every generation. Children have been taught to excel and then mysteriously ostracized for their magnificence. I have said again and again, people do not dislike you because you are not good enough, they are afraid when they recognize that you are living your God-self naturally. Children are instructed from an early age not to have such a big imagination. Yet it is that very imagination that allows a human to soar to greatness. A Master does not require the approval of the world to know his or her own inner magnificence. Yet one who recognizes their own worth without needing others to approve is considered frightening because they are uncontrollable by the puny standards of fear that the world wields. The shining value of Spirit directing the life standards holds such a powerful aura of Love that the EGOIC mind is enveloped in that Love and the choices that the Spirit/Mind connection makes are much more directed with true intention to the Highest Good of All concerned without plan or calculation of the intellectual mind alone.

The worship of intelligence as a means to an end has brought a disassociation with the innate goodness that originally existed before there was the division of mind and Soul. Your mind is wonderful, but without the guidance of deeper understanding logic becomes nothing but a justification for obtaining one's desires without ethics. Practicality becomes point of reference for physical actions without thought of the welfare of others except to convince those whom you are trying to confuse that you are doing the right thing.

Mental Objectivism can promote "selfishness" that fulfills what society has believed selfishness is—a narcissistic passion to fulfill the whims of the moment without consideration of the long term outcome on the whole. An example that has emerged is giving children money without giving them a sense of personal value or an understanding that there is a discipline necessary to make wise choices about what the money is worth. The child then sees money as an indication of love so, if suddenly the parent or source of the money can no longer dole out the love/money, there is a wound around the limit of cash or credit cards which have come to mean love. Everyone wants to be loved, but defining love as money is causing a painful reality as the energies of the planet are changing. It is not that there is suddenly not enough to go around, but a greater need to have more by those who have controlled the flow of currency throughout time. The nobility of hard work is being promoted with more emphasis than ever, yet the standard of living is slipping among those who have labored hard and long. Those who see hard work as something that the masses are required to do, keep raising the bar of how much "hard work" must be done in order to qualify for a living wage and they can always say you have not worked enough to justify the payment. These ideas are as old as the Universal Commercial Code that controls commerce on the planet. People fight to get what they deserve, but the "rub is" if you would, that the people do not fully believe that they deserve! They want, they need, but they are not convinced that they really have the right to the good. The EGO shouts "I have a right to the good", then it waits to see if someone will agree. A mighty connection with an essence that is far greater than the limited minds who fear being caught skimming the best for themselves and then telling others there is not enough to go around, lifts you into the reality that is waiting just beyond the same old thoughts and ideas that have never answered the question "Why am I limited". The EGO always answers "Because you did something wrong". You wrack your brain and cannot think of anything or you feel guilty and believe that the source of the guilt is the problem, but you still may have no clear answer as to why you are limited, except that those who seem to have more are telling you that if you were the right kind of person you would have access to all that they have. This standard of limitation can be summed up in the incitement of the "starving artist" syndrome. All of the statements made about someone who "doesn't have a real job", but seeks to express their own talents to a World that has come to reject beauty as a waste of time.

The ideals and principles of the intellect are segmented and there are many points of view that say "Do this, make these choices, live by these standards, do without, take what you want, be a victim, never be a victim, fight for your rights—round and round and round. The outcome of these points of confusion is being revealed more every day. The masses are fighting harder and more are dying, but nothing is any different than it has been because the physical law still says "fight to get what you want and then you must fight to keep it". The peace and prosperity that was supposed to happen if you fought hard enough are still just out of reach. Why?

What is peace? It is not something that you get when everyone agrees with you, but something that each Master is required to discover within self. Once each one finds peace within it is not to go out into the world and say “Let me tell you, show you what peace is”, but to live the discovery so well that you do not have to tell anyone. Your life becomes the teaching. The EGO wants people to notice how the life has changed. I will say again A MASTER DOES NOT REQUIRE THE APPROVAL OR NOTICE OF OTHERS. THE INNER KNOWING IS A SENSE OF SECURITY AND STRENGTH THAT NOTHING OUTSIDE OF SELF CAN FULFILL. Once you begin to live, really LIVE, your discoveries others will begin to change, not because you told them to but because you are broadcasting a new frequency of strength and compassion. Again the EGO wants to say “Look what “I” have done. A Master can look at those who are making changes in Love, the strength, the joy, the courage to live their own convictions and celebrate the fact that they are waking up, that their lives now contributing to the goodness of the whole. The recognition of the fact that every contribution of Love magnifies the good/God of All, is valuable beyond rules and laws of limit. The more who are willing to look within and discover the good, the greater the good for All without the belief that their way is the only way, the more peace will truly abide in the World. There are those who are so wounded and filled with fear that they cling desperately to their right to take what they want no matter what. God’s Love holds All in the essence of Oneness. Love does not destroy it’s creation. Love seeks to offer new and different ways of healing to those who are sick with the old energies. It recognizes that it cannot make others well unless they choose it. Love does not make excuses nor does it become a victim to the wounded. It seeks to hear clearly within self the answers that will redirect the old, distorted views of the World that is passing.

There was a time when the value of a human being was held in the way that he or she conducted their life and affairs graciously. Then the shift moved to the appearance of graciousness. Then the World became more casual and graciousness became something to be sneered at—“only the rich are gracious”. A Master is gracious no matter how much money is involved. Pride in workmanship diminished with the industrial age. There was a time when, if someone did a good job it was valued—from president to janitor. Things began to change as people in the factory were relegated to assembly line machinery. “Idea-men” were valued above the workers on the production line. Then the “idea-men” began to figure out how to make money without putting out effort. “The less input for the greater gain” became the motto of those who discovered that the prestige of setting controls and passing laws gained more for less value. The money markets are in the control of traders who gamble with the worth of people’s lives with the same glee that one would find at a casino. The speculators play their game to make money no matter what—whether it is the stock market or congress. Revelation is pulling the covers off of the fact that the majority of those in Washington gave up long ago on truly serving the people and if someone arrives on the scene and refuses to play “the game” the players will set out to destroy their reputation or block their progressive ideas at every turn. Be very aware that regulations do not regulate those who do not choose to be regulated. There are those who make regulations to limit the people who believe in them. Then there are the conscientious who live from a standard that would not allow themselves be limited by fear and greed. They would allow their own value be the strength that would let them say “no” when every whim of the controller’s would attempt to coerce them to go against their own moral fiber. Moral’s, Beloved Masters, are not edicts of Religion or words tossed around by those who do not understand them, but an internal guidance that would not let someone do unto another something that they would not wish done unto them and the strength to live by that personal Spiritual guidance no matter what-- Including the strength to forgive themselves and others if they were not always perfect in their ability to hear the clear voice within. Masters do not make excuses, they pay attention to their own inner emotional climate—what am I feeling? Masters do not defend themselves, they live by the Truth of their own inner knowing, but do not seek to impose their standards upon others. Cold calculation is not Masterful, but quite human.

Masters do not explain why, unless they feel that the lesson that they have gained might assist another along the way. In that case they hold no judgment about how another would use the information or if they would use it at all.

It may seem that We, the Masters, are saying the same things over and over. In the greatest Love and patience, We will say them forever if that is what it takes for each of you to remember. We, the Masters are with you all of the time. You are Loved beyond you finite mind's ability to fathom a Love so totally all encompassing. The World's assessments of "good and bad" have no influence on this Love. God is not a patriarchal father who will only love when the child complies. God Loves the defiant, the meek, the fearful, the angry, the Souls that are seeking to live a good life and those who do not believe that there is a good life. God's Love is equal for All and that is something that the finite mind simply cannot comprehend. In fact, the finite mind would argue that what We are sharing with you is impossible. Objectivism suggests that there is nothing beyond the five senses, which is why the new energies are so disturbing to those who only believe in themselves without Spirit as the guiding essence.

Ascension is not for the feint-hearted. Spiritual evolution is not another power game of the few controlling the many. The shift from the human believing that they are pursuing Mastery somewhere out there, to Masters remembering that they are having a human experience NOW is necessary for the game to change completely. The planets in their courses are assisting in bring about energetic, electronic changes in the human consciousness that will bring all people to the necessary remembering process as it is time.
