

February Newsletter

The first of our pictures this month is “The Ancient One”. This is a most special rock from Sinks Canyon. We have had such a warm and spring-like January that the robins have been all over our deck, but we know that winter is not yet done so there will be frost on everything again soon.

Ah, Valentine’s! Like Christmas it is a time to think about caring for those that we love. I find that I am feeling an expanded sense of inclusion of everything without even trying. I am attempting to take in just how big that is. It feels huge. My mind cannot take in the impact of owning everything as me, so I must shift my focus to the center of my body and allow myself to feel that inclusion. It is so comforting to focus on inclusion rather than where I do not belong. I am even recognizing that exclusion is something that we do to ourselves and put other people’s names and faces on it. No one can exclude us if we do not accept that we are unworthy. They can do things and say things, but if we see ourselves as included and feel the belonging developing in our center then we draw inclusion into our lives.

There are as many kinds of love as there are people on the planet. When we can let go of what love is or how it must look or act or present itself, then we can allow ourselves to be loved in every different way and keep our own integrity in the process. Love is not and never was a power give away.

Rainbow Center News

Our group for February is “How the Goddesses See the Changes”. Isis, Artemes and Kwan Yin will speak about their perspective of what is going on in these times. The group will be February 12 at the Rainbow Center, 177 N. 4th in Lander.

CD’s can be purchased on the website at www.voiceofthegatekeepers.com/2012groups.html

February’s “Chat’s with the Inner Merlin” will be “The Embracing World”. Merlin brings us to reunite with the ancient mysteries that we turned our back on in order to accept separation. As we close the circle we up spiral to new levels of awareness and experience right here and right now. We truly can live our Magik.

ASTROLOGY

FULL MOON

February 7 marks the Full Moon in the sign of Leo. The Leo/Aquarius axis deals with our ability to give and receive love, how we define it, how we create our ability to take risks and keep our balance in the changes, our friends, our dreams, goals and desires and our willingness to receive assistance in achieving what we desire.

Leo seek the expression of one’s real self. It is physically associated with the organ of the heart. Aquarius progress and the power of group mind. When passion drives head long without a consciousness about the outcome or when ideals have no clear connection to reality (a sensitivity to how the dream can affect the physical world) there are inherent dangers involved. This Full Moon calls us to pay attention that neither head nor heart becomes a dictator, but that the union of intellect and love bring a gentle way of effecting changes. When the courage and creativity of Leo join the equality and solidarity of Aquarius, we emerge into a whole new World.

Mercury is closely conjunct the Sun at this Full Moon. So close in fact that the light of the Sun can blind reason and therefore the ability to rely on the intuition is imperative.

When Mercury is within four degrees of the Sun in the birth chart it is called via combusta. This brings about what I have come to call “an off the computer readout”. There is a temporary white out where the person simply bypasses the gates that say “don’t say that. ” Often times it can appear that the person is giving intuitive information. There is no memory of what is said and quite frequently the person may say things that have been on their mind, but they would not speak out loud until some aspect triggers the conjunction.

Creation begins with an image which the mind then defines in “logical” form (Mercury). The thought inspires our desire (Venus) which brings about action (Mars). Thoughts do matter as all thought takes a form of some kind. We bring into matter what we think about with passion. When we pool our thoughts, visions and emotions in the collective consciousness they are magnified and multiplied. People thinking, with emotional attachment, about the lack of jobs and money are contributing to the scarcity of good jobs and the insane misuse of finances on the planet. We do create our own reality pleasant or unsatisfactory.

Saturn, co-ruler of Aquarius, stations retrograde just a matter of hours before this Full Moon. The retrograde occurs at 29 degrees 31 minutes Libra. The final two degrees of a sign bring a time of karmic finishing. Even though Saturn will remain in Libra until October of this year, the retrograde at this degree holds an energy of attention to how we are dealing with all of our relationships. Saturn will turn direct on June 25 and return the point of its retrograde on October 1.

On February 3, Neptune, the planet most associated with compassion and unity, returns to Pisces. It will remain in Pisces, the sign that it rules, until 2025. Neptune touched into Pisces and activated the connection from April 4 to August 4, 2011. During this time there were increased civil unrest and deepening financial crisis in many countries. This time as Neptune passes through Pisces the changes that are called for are an increase in caring and consideration of self and others. This is such a core-level shift that it is bringing unrest all over the planet, as old methods of approaching conflict are being revealed as wholly unsatisfactory. Neptune rules illusion, but it also rules the connection with the unseen world of Faith and intuition. We are being asked to stop relying totally on the misconceptions of the mind and begin to see beyond the limits that we have accepted as all that there is. The up side of Neptune is the ability to see/feel, hear/feel and think/feel rather than just make arbitrary decisions based on historical outcomes.

We are here on earth at this time because we would not have missed it for the world. We came not only to experience the changes, but to implement them. We are the emissaries of a new becoming. If we are all willing to lay down our piece of the cosmic puzzle we will be able to see that each one of us has a vitally important part to fill that no one else can bring. We are in the dawning that we are the creators we have been waiting for. We are the love we have been seeking for lifetimes. It isn’t “Once upon a time in a land far away.... It is right here and right Now! This is the bright becoming. We simply have to clean our inner windows so we can recognize the wonder.

NEW MOON

The New Moon on February 21, falls in the sign of Pisces. Pisces is the last sign in the Zodiac. It represents our beliefs and our Faith or lack of it. Pisces closes the circle that is Oneness and the return to Source. As we move around the wheel again and again we can set aside the past and reach a pint where there is no judgment. The crisis of the times is that in the release of what was we are meeting everything that we have kept down or away from our conscious awareness. We are finding ourselves in a whole new way as the past as we have known it closes. We can now look at the world in compassion, through the eyes of unconditional love.

This twelfth sign includes infinite dimensions of reality and amazing new creation. We have relied on our five senses and now we are required to trust that there is so much more to us than we have allowed for so long. The vastness of the Universe can only be taken in through a consciousness that operates outside the box of limitation.

Religions and culture have sought to understand what lies beyond the physical. Slowly the mind, in its need to be in control, has closed the windows that show us who and what we truly are. Wondrous, awesome beings that we are, we have forgotten just how beautiful our being-ness is in the Cosmos. We are now required to embrace the fact that there is more to us beyond the physical than in it. The meta-physical world is the true reality. As Pisces closes the circle again we reach into the unknown for a language that can describe what the mind does not grasp. Cultures that emphasize logic over intuition and material proof over spiritual knowing have a difficult time integrating the subtle, primordial energies associated with Pisces, Neptune and the unconscious/subconscious mind. When we let ourselves slip into the belief that God isn't here we fall prey to addictions and distractions of all kinds. For so long we have been indoctrinated with the teachings that there is nothing of value inside of self. Everything that is worth anything is "out there somewhere". Wealth, health and love all lie in an unknown future that we cannot reach. We have been looking for someone or something to save us for so long that the idea that it is us we are looking for seems foreign.

Neptune, modern ruler of Pisces, conjoins the Sun and Moon at this New Moon, making an exact conjunction on February 19. Our imagination (Goddess principal), intuition and also, our illusions will all be acute during this time. Dreams can be signals and symbols from the unconscious and dreams will be rich and plenty now. Chiron, mercury and the asteroids Pallas and Vesta join the New Moon in Pisces. These aspects strengthen and enhance the essence and energy of contemplation and integration. The Sun exactly joins Chiron on February 24, bring special opportunities for resolution of long-standing conflicts. We will be reminded again and again that all healing involves acceptance and forgiveness, for ourselves first and then others. An attitude of gratitude can bring us through the most trying times.

The Sun and Moon sextile Jupiter, broadening our scope and increasing our ability to see the possibilities of greatness for ourselves and the world. When we see with "the eye that is single" we are looking through the windows of the Heart.

This New Moon conjuncts Fomalhaut at 3 degrees 52 minutes Pisces—the brightest star in the constellation of Piscis Australis. The name comes from the Arabic words Fum al Hut, "the Fish's Mouth" On November 13, 2008, Fomalhaut became the first stellar system seen with visible light (via the Hubble Space Telescope) as having an extrasolar planet in orbit. Fomalhaut is associated with the Archangel Gabriel, the angel of Incarnation and Consolation who instructs souls before their arrival on Earth.

As we step into the unknown of living beyond the illusions we are required to slow down and learn to discover how life works by living INSIDE OF OURSELVES and calling our desires to us rather than focusing outward on that which we believe we can never obtain.

CRYSTAL CORNER

Hello to all my readers! It's a wonderful day in Wyoming in spite of a brisk wind. Winter this year has been a delight compared to last year. As we head into 2012, I felt it would be helpful to tell you about some stones that might help you on your way.

Aergine/Quartz is a combination of two or more stones that would assist us in the coming times. It is an excellent stone for those who think they are fighting the dark forces. It would assist in the uplifting, the over-coming, the transformation and the transmutations of the belief systems in the dark forces, in that which could, from the negative side of life, do you a great deal of harm. It's a wondrous stone for these times of evolutionary revolution where the old order is being lifted, shifted and transformed. It holds the mystery of the goddess. This is like the womb of the mother where things are gestated as they are being brought into manifestation.

Another stone that would assist us in our ongoing is the Bronzite. Not really bronze, it is named for its dark bronze color. It would assist in accessing memories. It would also aid in blending energies of many different dimensions. All the higher energies are being brought into the physical as a transmuting aspect; living with the greater understanding rather than just knowledge and living with the acceptance of love rather than just speaking about it. The allowing of higher dimensions working with you in the physical is going to bring the life that has been called heaven. Many have looked to die to find it and they have believed that they could not possibly have it on earth, in a physical body and yet it is a stone such as this that will absolutely assure the remembrance of the at-onement so that life in this place is a sweet life and isn't a constant battle or war for elevating one's self. It is the allowance that the energies will lift you up.

Amegreen is a combination of Prasiolite and Amethyst that ignites the light that the soul is about through all of creation. This ignites the remembering of that brilliance within self that has been so dimmed by the illusion. It provides the light that the mind could not even imagine if it meditated upon it. For the mind could not imagine going into places of the crystalline clarity or that absolute unimpeded vision. It is definitely a stone of remembering.

Last but not least is the Anhydrite. A crystal of exquisitely high energy, it reaches into the universe you have created for yourself. It works with centering-as above, so below-drawing from the universe without and the universe within and bringing them to center, a point of clarity where the entity could grasp how it all works together for them.

Happy birthday to all the Aquarians out there. It's nice to have you in our world!

For more information on the stones or classes, please give me a call. I would love to visit with you.

TAROT TALK

February is a month associated with love and compassion. With that in mind I simply asked, “Where are we going in these times?”

I used the LOVERS as a focus and drew three cards that would expand on the question.

The Lovers is a blending of self with Self/ I AM THAT I AM. This is where we are being called to focus now. Oneness and unity are aspects of Aquarius that are showing up everywhere we turn. We simply cannot escape the truth of the changes that are happening, much more within us than without. All change begins within. Feel the grander love, the greater possibilities that are unfolding in your deepest being and influencing the collective consciousness powerfully.

The first card that turned up is the Sage of Cups. What a great card to start this reading of love and compassion. Men opening to their gentle, tender side and daring to express. Without guile or predisposition, President Obama, a man who genuinely loves and respects his wife, has influenced future political candidates to, at least attempt to include their wives in their lives. No longer can the Goddess be hidden in a closet or considered a prop that looks good and nothing else. The Sage calls for the wisdom that is born of compassion. The Sages in the Voyager deck are the Grandparents or Wise Ones that we look to for a sharing of knowledge gained through experience. Women are slowly gaining a place of balance and a position of respect as a whole. Warren Buffet, expressing the imbalance of his secretary having to pay more taxes than he does, is not only a commentary on the ludicrousness of a system that rewards the rich and legally makes the rest of the world responsible for bringing about whatever those with money can think up to want, but it honors the Goddess and asks that she be held in regard in the world.

The second card that emerged is the CHARIOT. This is a card that represents balance that is kept by clear focus on personal intension. The Chariot is pulled by the two horses of Will—positive and negative force. When the will is aligned with that of God, the Chariot rolls down the road harmoniously.

However, when the will is exerted without clarity the horses become confused and the Chariot is upset. The Chariot indicates a time of waiting for the Divinely appropriate moment to act or go forward on a project or venture.

I see the Chariot card like a big cat that is preparing that spring—the muscles ripple as the cat positions itself, getting set in just the appropriate way so that when the lunge forward is made it is clear, direct and on target. The Chariot is showing us that in these times every move we make would be well felt out rather than just thought out. Feel the timing within self and forgive allowing the EGO to rush things because it is impatient.

The third card is THE STAR, the card of the Goddess Kwan Yin, Goddess of wisdom and mercy. We have been taught to reach for the Stars as a way of indicating “ALWAYS SETTLE FOR MORE”! Kwan Yin brings the gift of unlimited possibilities. The Nine of Cups is called “wish fulfillment”. It is about the physical accomplishments of the World. The STAR is COSMIC WISH FULFILLMENT. Anything that you can dream or desire can be yours provided that it is for the good of all concerned.

Where are we going? We are moving forward into a potentially clearer, more aware world than we have known in so long that it appears to be totally new. The Old ways of doing things are being revealed for their inefficiency, lack of vision and repetitive actions. We truly are required to step into the unknown within ourselves and find where we would delight in living as the illusions fall away. EN-joy!!

ST. GERMAIN'S MESSAGE

Dearly Beloved Masters, we desire to show you where things are going. We would attempt to give a clear view, yet many are still seeing "Through a glass darkly".

When you look at the world what do you see? That is what you will live tomorrow and the day after that and on, if you do not accept that it is you that is making what you see happen by your amazingly Masterful ability to bring about what you focus upon. It isn't them that are making your life difficult, it is where you choose to look. You have the whole of the world and all of its possibilities to choose from and, therefore, you are not forced to see only the lack, disease, poverty and fear. Yes, they exist because so many choose to believe that that is all there is. No, that is not all that the world is about nor has it ever been all. But it is a grand illusion and the masses have been dedicated to holding it as true. Now, each one is being brought to the place where they may, if they will, see that none of this has to be any longer. "How do I change it?" WITHIN!!!! You don't change them. It is not your place nor is it possible for you to override the FREE WILL of any other Master. The old rule of domination and control is collapsing and falling to dust. It can not be resurrected. Try as they may the political system, the churches, the medical profession and even large corporations cannot stuff the people back into a box that they have outgrown. Humanity is feeling a collective shift of consciousness.

Each day you experience change in every aspect of your life. Many of these changes are subtle, virtually unnoticeable and some are huge with life changing impact. The part of you that has wanted to stay in control is experiencing fear and anxiety. Learning to live without knowing exactly what is coming next is one of the great challenges that Earth is meeting. The blessings that are pouring in flow from the Love that created all of this to begin with. How long has it been since you recognized the beauty of yourself within? How long, how many life times have you journeyed away from where you understood your spirit as the reality of you?

How many times recently have you experienced having something that you thought about manifest in your life? The phone rings and you have a feeling about who it is. Someone who has been on your mind, even if you have not thought of them in years, calls, contacts you on Facebook or shows up on your doorstep. There are no accidents.

Stepping into the unknown can be exciting and refreshing. It is an opportunity to stretch and grow into who you are. Success is not a mental creation alone. It comes from an open heart which allows a positive attitude.

We keep asking you "Where is your focus?", in order to keep you mindful from day to day, moment to moment, so that you begin to notice that you are creating your life with your thoughts.

Do you wish to have another job, but fear being without work? You keep thinking about what else you could be doing and looking for some other position. You withdraw your attention away from your current occupation until the connection snaps and you are fired or the job ends. You created this by focusing your energy away from the old job. It isn't about fault or wrong. It is about timing. It was time for you to change. You knew in your deepest self that it was time, but the mind wanted to get things lined up and insure a certain outcome. The truth is that when you allow change it will take you to the highest, most positive good if you are willing to get out of your own way.

Another creation that is misunderstood is wishing that something bad would happen to someone else. This keeps the focus on negative outcomes. You are the one holding these thoughts and perhaps being convinced that the other person is the cause of all of your woes. The constant focus on negative outcomes forms a web of energy in your life. "Bad" things seem to get caught in your field of action and the blame is placed outside of yourself.

Here is an example: A woman was angry with her life. She focused on her husband as the reason that her life was not working. The more she complained the worse "he" got. Finally, in desperation she sought help. The first thing that the therapist asked was, "What are you saying and thinking about your husband?" She began to recite all of his faults and flaws. The therapist suggested that she be very attentive for the next week or so, paying attention to saying only positive things about this man and to verbally praise him to his face. "Lift him up" the therapist said and "watch how your life improves".

She grudgingly did what the healer asked and noticed that her husband began to do things around the house that she had wanted done for a long time. He even helped with dinner and seemed to enjoy being with her. He came home from work rather than going out every night. The whole relationship improved as she practiced a positive attitude and “gratitude rather than gripe”. One day it occurred to her that her life was so much better since her husband changed. Suddenly, it dawned on her that he didn’t change until she did.

The power of positive thinking has been present for a long time, but the power of positive feeling is even stronger. The feelings connect you to your inner place of love and compassion that has been ignored and even avoided for a long time. When you make Love the rule of your life rather than the exception, everyone seems nicer.

Perhaps equally valuable is the recognition that you actually are a Divine Creative Master. It is not some “pretty phrase” or catchy words, but powerful, uplifting, expanding Truth. Let the Love and goodness sink in, soak in and enrich your inner self. Forgive hearing praise from others and dismissing it as flattery. If it feels good take it in. Criticizing or questioning the intentions of another can be a defense mechanism that prevents you from trusting Love. The Love is in you!!! Accept that you are loved. Being in tune with yourself can, possibly, make you more aware of the control games of others. But the awareness of their feelings of worthlessness has nothing to do with whether you are valuable or not. In fact, the more you honor your own value the more you can assist others to recognize their own worth. It becomes easier to genuinely compliment another person and thus to see your personal value increase in your eyes.

Find the Love within you. Create from that inner source and change your life to the beautiful, prosperous life you desire.

Reading this and just wishing that it were true is actually a denial of the good that already exists in your life. Longing something that you believe is not yours is another form of denial. When you attempt to bring good into your life by just wishing and wanting all of your energy is being funded to the unformed future. Only when you begin to focus right here and right NOW will you create the magnetism that draws the GOD/good life to you. It is already yours, but the belief that it is not keeps you from living where the good is. If your thoughts are always somewhere else, envying others, going over and over your lack and experiencing anger and even hatred against those who seem to have more than you do, then it is time to consider how this limits your life. There is the possibility that they have discovered how to focus on what they desire Now in this moment.

Some people can make money. The rest of their life is Hell, but they have money. Why?, because they focus every ounce of their energy on money and its acquisition. Some people get sick and die from diseases that others overcome. If the truth is known it is what is going on inside their heart that makes the difference. This has nothing to do with “good people/bad people” It is about focused intention. YOU ARE JUST AS CAPABLE OF A GOOD LIFE AS ANYONE ELSE. What are you thinking? Saying that you believe in good, but living in panic all of the time cancels the positive outcome of Faith and brings the outcomes of fear and frustration rather than positive living. IT TAKES GREAT COURAGE TO TRUST IN THE LOVE THAT WILL HEAL YOU AND ALLOW IT TO DIRECT YOUR LIFE. It means that you are responsible for where your mind goes and what you are dwelling on consistently. An occasional reassurance to others that you really want the good does not transmute habitual focus on “worst possible outcomes”, even if you never say these things out loud to anyone. If fearful things are what you are always talking about then lack and limit are constant companions. If you are telling anyone who will listen about how sad your life is then you guarantee that what you desire is blocked by your thoughts and the emotions that power them.

Dearly Beloved Masters, you are powerful. Trust that what you speak about is what you create. You cannot fool the energy of creation into bringing you the best when you are convinced that it does not exist. Bitter seeds produce bitter fruit—it is natural law. You are being asked to stretch and expand beyond the limits of illusion.

What the world has been about is illusion. What you are seeking is REAL. Get real with yourself about habits and addictions that hold you away from your magnificent good. Judgment heals nothing. Being angry with yourself “because you just can’t get it right” does not end the belief that you are wrong. In order to make the shift to happiness first you are required to befriend and support yourself. Forgive making excuses about why you cannot change. Forgive judging your past and allow yourself to move forward without comparison. This is what stepping into the unknown is about. THERE IS NO WAR IN THE CHANGES THAT ARE CALLED FOR IN THESE TIMES. War and living a peaceful life are mutually exclusive.

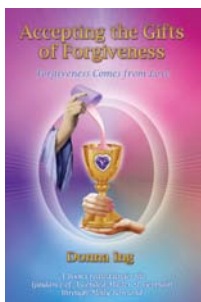

Pay attention to how the inner warrior makes you anxious and fretful. There is no rest or relaxation in it. In fact, the world game pushes for aggression and the terminology of business and even sports is all about war. In order to achieve what you desire in these times there is a requirement for letting go of the struggle and allowing the good to reveal its self—REVELATION.

We are with you and we have walked this journey when we were in physicality. The EGO wants us to return to flesh and I assure you that we are much more helpful in the essence of where you are going than to return to where you have been. You cannot heal anything in the place where it started. It can only be transformed in a different frequency. We have no desire to JOIN THE BATTLE. Our most powerful intension is to lift you up, as you will allow, and help you to see where you are going. YOU ARE SO LOVED!

Ponder what we have given you. Hopefully, you will not think about it as much as feel into it. Let your mental energy blend with spirit and rest assured that Spirit will assist you to make wise and wonderful choices, choices made from the clarity of Soul rather than the need and desperation of a frightened EGO. Where would you run in these times of revelation? There truly is no place that you could go that you would not be there waiting when you arrive. In the greatest of Love we bless your changes. Until we meet again in whatever manner that may be, I remain your most humble servant. I AM the Lord St. Germain
