

June Newsletter

The May group is one of the most powerful things that St. Germain has ever done! “Are You Willing to Let Love Change You?” has such an energetic impact. It is full of Love and Hope. St. Germain talks about the economy, the ecology, the oil spills around the world and shows us how to begin to release the old burdens of the past in order to move forward toward 2012 with a lighter heart, mind and spirit. The CD’s-there are three in the set- are $25 and I will say that you will feel better with just one listening.

I have wonderful news. I went to an oncologist in Billings, Mt. in May and he did a KAT scan. The results are a clean bill of health. He said he could not really see anything in the uterus area and the rest of my organs are clear. He said that he had never seen a woman my age that has had endometrial cancer for over four years and is as healthy as I am. He told me that he didn’t know what it is that I am doing that works, but it is. He said, “Just keep doing it.” Yea!!!

Another piece of good news is that Dorian is walking with only a cane for support which she uses when she is tired or out and about, on the advice of her therapist.

Our intensive was the best one yet, according to those who were in attendance. There was a lot of new (really new) information and demonstrations of our expansion. St. Germain is bringing us to connect to our feelings and understand how we are using our energy (thoughts, emotions and spirit) to create our own reality.

Spring has tentatively come to Wyoming. We have had some days that were close to 80 degrees. On May 11 we had thirty inches of snow which collapsed our deck on the back of our house. The snow was wet and heavy and the deck just fell in. This was most unusual because our snow is generally light and fluffy. It started to snow Monday night and snowed straight through until Wednesday afternoon. Such is spring time in the Rockies.

The energies are shifting for everyone and it is a challenge to keep ones balance in the midst of all of the changes, especially the “older models” as St. Germain calls those over forty. The rewiring process can bring up the fear that something is really wrong physically, mentally and/or emotionally when it is just different. The medical profession is having some of the biggest opportunities for reconsidering their point of view. Those who have allowed the doctors to “practice” on them are being required to take responsibility for their own healing; after all it is their body and life, not the doctors.

I wouldn’t want to be a geologist now. Being the weather person has always been a crapshoot, but now it is an exercise in futility. It works better to just look out the window. We are experiencing interesting shifts in the weather year by year. A number of years ago, St. Germain said that central Wyoming would become more temperate. We wondered what that would look like and now we are beginning to find out. We are having later, cooler springs with more moisture than usual. We only run our air-conditioner five days last summer. We will probably have more temperature spikes this summer if we ever get there. I feel that we may have snow into June. With the big eclipse on June 26 (see astrological info) anything could happen.

ASTROLOGY

NEW MOON

The information highway is our key to navigating time and space. Whether light, sound or everything physical and intuitive, we use this energy to understand who, what and where we are. This New Moon in Gemini spotlights how we gather, incorporate and discriminate information on every level of our being.

In alchemy, Mercurius is androgynous, representing the unification of all opposites—especially the interplay of mind and emotion, masculine and feminine, spirit and matter. Gemini, represented by the twins symbolizes the learning gained by the exploration of duality. Gemini seeks to sample as much of life as possible, in order to ultimately realize the inseparability of all dichotomies and dimensions. Where this New Moon falls in our chart is where we are ready for new sources of information and new perceptions of reality.

Confusion, anxiety or overwhelm indicate that we require more information—not from conventional media sources, but from the Cosmos. We are being opened and expanded more all of the time so that we can receive, through intuitional channels, higher intelligence, the remembrance of who we truly are. The real news comes not from TV or newspapers but from the Galactic Center, from other star systems and our own solar system that beam evolutionary updates, which activate the natal chart and propel us toward spiritual goals.

The wise ones, holy ones and indigenous people know that prayer and meditation at certain energy times of the day, month or season bring connection to our own cosmic order and our place in it. Our spinal column is our antenna; our endocrine system transduces and distributes celestial signals to our brain and body. As we have allowed ourselves to get further and further from our Divine connections we have been taught that communing with nature, the stars and planets is strange, crazy or just not important any longer yet many people are hearing the call more profoundly than ever. If you don’t know what to do next it might help to have a conversation with the Sun and breathe in its light for assistance. Feeling afraid? Sit on the Earth and commune with the plants, animals, rocks and water. Divine aid is available all of the time; we just have to remember how to tune in to it.

For this New Moon, Mercury is in its home sign of Gemini and in aspect to all of the planets. (The Sun and Moon are considered lights, not planets, as is Mercury.) This means expansion of our channel and greater receptivity to new ideas. Mercury squares Mars in Virgo and Chiron in Pisces, which generates a mutable T-square, requiring that we communicate with both clarity and compassion. The winged God, Mercury sits in quincunx to the Lord of Darkness, Pluto in Capricorn. This obliges us to investigate where we are not walking our talk. Are we really living our truth?

Uranus and Jupiter’s entry into Aries on May 27 and June 5 magnify the requirement to explore and incorporate new approaches to all aspects of our lives. These two powerful planets remain within 10 degrees of each other from April 2010 to March 2011, bringing about mind-expanding scientific developments and radical social changes. Racial, religious and political injustices cannot continue to go unnoticed under these frequencies. Humanity's evolutionary pace is increasing and the gap between having the thought and realizing its outcome is diminishing moment by moment. THOUGHTS ARE, INDEED, THINGS! Every thought changes our biochemistry, which alters our magnetic field, which in turn transmutes the energy fields all around us, including the Earth and the Universe. We are being forced to accept that we truly do create our own reality and influence the lives of others. This is no longer a concept that exists "out there" somewhere. We are catching up to it. Mercury's sextile to the Jupiter-Uranus conjunction helps us to see the interrelationship between mind and matter—where ever we are focusing our thoughts becomes a prayer for that outcome. THERE ARE NO IDLE THOUGHTS.

The Sabian symbol for this New Moon at 22 degrees Gemini encourages us to live harmoniously with each other and our home planet Earth: "Dancing couples in a harvest festival: the wholesome enjoyment of organic processes and emotionally drives." This calls us to remember: Be like the bumblebee, which should not be able to fly. Some of the world's greatest feats were accomplished by people who simply did not know they were impossible.

FULL MOON

We live in an ocean of vibratory frequencies, awash with interference patterns generated from both manmade and stellar sources. Microwaves, X-rays, radio waves, Gamma, ultraviolet and infrared radiation bathe us daily. Every six months the Sun, Moon and Earth align precisely enough to interrupt a portion of that constant stream of cosmic rays, creating a reconfiguration of consciousness. Old patterns dissolve. New portals and pathways are formed. We experience the opening of the doorways to new dimensions.

This lunar eclipse on June 26 is one of the major astrological alignments of 2010. There are a number of aspects that contribute to the power of this eclipse. First it occurs just days after the solstice. This Full Moon forms a Grand Cross with Pluto, Uranus, Saturn, Jupiter and Mercury all within 5 degrees of the Cardinal points (Aries, Cancer, Libra and Capricorn). This marks the shift from one phase of development to another. A Grand Square is made up of at least four squares and two oppositions; this Grand Cross involves twelve squares and six oppositions, increasing the challenges but also the potential for quantum leaps. Squares require that we make real, not cosmetic changes; oppositions are resolved only when we respect and integrate both sides of any issue. The Jupiter-Uranus conjunction in Aries is a wake up call to boldly step out and do things differently. The Sun and Mercury in Cancer put us in touch with our real feelings and needs. The Moon and Pluto in Capricorn require us to take responsibility for our own lives and release victim consciousness, while Saturn in Virgo directs us to focus on what is most pertinent at this time. This is a crucial turning point in human evolution.

This Grand Cross also aligns with the Super Galactic Center (SGC) at 1 degree 46 minutes Libra, a gigantic Black Hole with the mass of billions of suns, around which the Milky Way and many other galaxies revolve. Powerful electromagnetic transmissions emanating from the SGC act as a spiritual beacon, triggering memories of our cosmic origins and destiny. This eclipse is also a part of 70 related eclipses, Saros Cycle 146, which began in 1541, the beginning point of modern astronomy and the genesis of global paradigm shifts away from a geocentric model of the Universe. The revolutionary nature of this eclipse is further energized by Uranus's station retrograde on July 5 which brings Uranus to hover near the first degree of Aries for 78 days. Saturn makes its third quincunx to Neptune (Virgo-Aquarius) on the day after the eclipse, marking the end of a nine month gestation period. We can certainly expect some extraordinary developments, this summer, in our understanding of our Universe and the part that we are playing in this amazing time.

Some of the most recent eclipses in Cancer-Capricorn have been a lunar eclipse on June 26, 1991, a solar eclipse on December 25, 2000 and a lunar eclipse on June 24, 2002. What did you feel was important then? Where is your direction taking you now? The Sabian symbols advise us to be attentive to how we are using our energy. The EGO pulls toward carelessness or Narcissism and we are required to recognize, within ourselves, the way to remain balanced. For the Sun at 5 degrees Cancer: "At a railroad crossing, an automobile is wrecked by a train; the tragic results which are likely to occur when the individual's will pits itself carelessly against the power of the collective will of society." And for the Moon at 5 degrees of

Capricorn: "Indians on the warpath. While some men row a well-filled canoe, others in it perform a war dance; the mobilization of physical and emotional energies in a spirit of conquest."

The old order is ending. We are feeling the mourning and sense of loss for what we have known. The new order is not yet clear, therefore we are forced to rely on Faith to guide us and this is unfamiliar territory. The value that has been placed on material goods is small in comparison to the good that awaits us in the higher dimensional frequencies, yet because the mind only trusts what it can see; we fear that the future holds nothing but limit. The bad news is that the old ways are ending and the good news is that the old ways are ending. How it will be for each one depends on how we measure for ourselves.

CRYSTAL CORNER

As we go along our path, most of us will hear about the kundalini rising or the sacred serpent rising. For me it's the dragon rising but that's another story! The kundalini rests in the root chakra and as we move along our path, it begins to rise along the spinal column. If you will look at the symbol of the medical profession, it will show a staff (symbolic of the spinal column) with two serpents entwined around it. That is the kundalini energy. As it rises, it passes through the chakras or energy centers of the body. There is a layout of stones that will facilitate the movement of that energy.

Serpentine

Serpentine is the primary stone used as its main function is to help raise the kundalini. In this particular usage, Serpentine would be used in the area of the neck and at the base of the spine with rainbow colors in between. So, beginning at the root chakra,

Jasper

you would place the Serpentine, red Jasper just above that, Carnelian at the navel, Citrine at the solar plexus, Chrysoprase, Kunzite or pink Tourmaline at the heart,

Citrine

Chrysoprase

Kunzite

Tourmaline

Lapis

Azurite

Amethyst

Sugilite

Lepidolite

Lapis or Azurite at the throat, Lapis, Kunzite or pink Tourmaline on the third eye and Amethyst, Sugilite or even Lepidolite at the crown as the crown chakra is moving to the very light violet colors.

TAROT TALK

If you will notice, the stones used correspond with the colors of the chakras as they are now or the colors they are moving into. The colors of the chakras are changing in the ascension. It is almost as if you are adding light to them. Eventually, as we attain our crystalline structure, all will be clear.

The raising of this energy is a gradual process. There are those who would have you attend a weekend workshop to raise the kundalini and it is done once and for all. However, one must be aware of the energy being worked with and the willingness to allow the processes so that the kundalini will continue to be activated. We can cause ourselves pain by beginning the process and then becoming stuck in our fear of the end result.

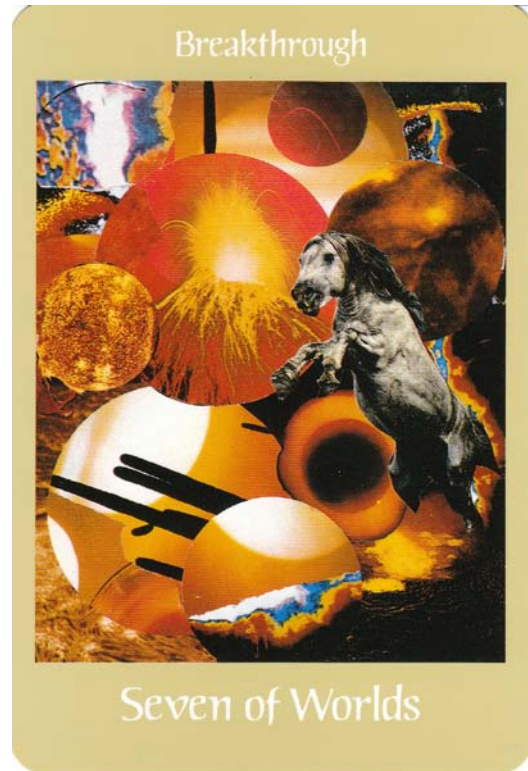

Cacoxinite is a stone associated with the magma, the transmutation and therefore, the sacred serpent rising. It would assist in bringing sanity to someone who has raised the kundalini too rapidly. There are always tools and instruments available for our use if we make inappropriate choices!

Please contact me with any comments or questions about the stones or crystal healing.

Until next month, enjoy your journey!

As the planets are breaching the veil of illusion we are being offered many breakthroughs. Our card this month is the Seven of Worlds—Breakthrough. The Seven of Worlds is associated with the Chariot. Like the Charioteer break through the blocks and obstacles along your way. Make sure that the power that you are using to overcome is the essence of loving allowance, rather than the disassociation of destruction. We have been taught that the only way to win is to destroy the enemy. The new paradigms remind us that the “enemy” is us. Therefore, as we move forward with a warlike attitude, seeking to annihilate others in the drive for success, we may hit the wall of illusion full force in the new energy.

We have just passed through some of the most emotionally demanding times that the Earth has ever experienced. Now, when many feel the most vulnerable we are being offered the chance to accelerate our spiritual evolution in unimaginable ways. We are given glimpses of where we are going, but the EGO dismisses these illuminations as pure imagination. The veils of illusions are becoming thinner each moment. What lies beyond has always been there.

The breakthroughs that are being presented can heal the wounds of the game of separation and restore wellness to body, emotions, physical affairs and disturbed mind. Beyond the veil is the ability to live in wholeness (holiness) because disease will be recognized for what it is—a war of opposing forces within self. Poverty can vanish because wealth will be measured by the willingness to allow al the good available rather than struggling to possess just a tiny part of it. The idea that anyone else is more worthy or deserved to prosper than self can disappear like smoke. Mental illness, which is emotional distress and fear, can begin to clear because in love the mind can be balanced by spiritual reason.

If the Breakthrough card turns up in your reading imagine this: You are facing a brick wall which the mind tells you is impossible to pass. Yet as you step forward to touch the wall you notice that it is bending and fluctuating as though a breeze were blowing paper. You push on the wall and it gives. You take a breath and hit the wall as hard as you can and you breakthrough into a whole new world that has always been there behind the hard beliefs of the old ways.

The Breakthrough card tells you that you are standing at a point of major change. If nothing is changing in your life the Universe is waiting on you to make the first move. Be courageous and strong in a compassionate way. Feel for yourself in order to recognize the power of your true self that is being exposed by the shifts of paradigms on Earth now. The breakthrough is a wonderful gift. The EGO says that it is really scary and you don't know what is coming next, which can bring up victim consciousness. You are now required to walk your talk and live (not just talk about, but live) your Faith. Nothing will ever be the same again as you make the breakthrough into what has seemed impossible. This card calls you to reexamine possible.

THE GARDEN FAIRY

Calendula or Pot Marigold

Calendula is a hardy annual of the daisy family and first used by Indian and Arabic herbalists in rejuvenation formulas. Native to the eastern Mediterranean, this brightly colored flower is now grown around the world.

The ancient Egyptians valued calendula for its alleged rejuvenation properties while their Greek contemporaries used the brightly colored petals as a culinary garnish. In India, calendula blossoms were woven into wreaths which were used to decorate images of the various gods and goddesses. More recently, Civil War doctors reportedly used the leaves to treat open wounds on the battlefield.

The name Calendula stems from the Latin “Kalende”, meaning first day of the month, presumably because Calendula are in bloom at the start of most months of the year. Calendula is considered by many gardeners as one of the most versatile flowers to grow in the garden. Be advised to not plant in the vegetable garden as the larvae of the Cabbage Moth or Large Yellow Underwing love to use it as food.

Calendula petals are considered edible. They are often used to add color to salads, and calendula extract is commonly added to Chicken feed to produce darker egg yolks. The aroma, however, is not sweet, and resembles the smell of hops in beer. The oil from its seed contains calendic acid, an essential component in soap products. Calendula is in the same botanical family as arnica and is used in situations where arnica is unavailable or inappropriate. Calendula has healing and rejuvenating properties and is used in many skin preparations and in aromatherapy. It is said to have an anti-viral, anti-inflammatory and antiseptic properties. It is used topically for acne, bruises, impetigo, reducing inflammation, controlling bleeding and soothing irritated skin. Take in an infusion to aid digestion, eyewash for conjunctivitis, mouthwash for thrush, and to promote bile production in the liver. Calendula has a good history of external use in the treatment of varicose veins. The fresh flower is masticated, reduced to a paste and applied to the affected areas. The dried flowers are made into an infused oil, tea, or tincture. The tea was a pre-Civil War era remedy for nausea, headache, fever and menstrual cramps.

Calendula has been used for centuries with few problems. Animal testing seems to show that calendula does have some healing properties but hasn't yet been exhaustively studied on people. When using calendula for herbal purposes, it's important to make sure that you're using authentic Calendula officinalis and not one of the ornamental marigolds like Tagetes patula or T. erecta.

It seems that politicians all over the world are having difficulty with telling things straight or getting their heads around the scope of what they are dealing with on the planet.

Here is a video of an Australian politician talking about the huge oil spill in the ocean off of Australia. He says, "It really doesn't matter that the oil spilled into the ocean. There is nothing out there." The fact that fish and all of the creatures of the deep are dying from the oil spills seems to be of no consequence to many great minds. If it is less than human it doesn't count and even if the deaths are of humans, many of the ones who are running the world seem to forget that we were placed here as stewards of the Earth, not to use it up and move on. ST. GERMAIN'S MESSAGE

THE GAME HAS ENDED!!

Take heart, Beloved Masters!!! The truth is being revealed. Many do not like what they are finding because it does not go along with their BS, Belief Systems. There are those who are so invested in war that they are angry because the war is ending, along with the game of separation. Those deeply steeped in the old ways of conflict insist that there is a Holy War going on in Heaven and Lord Michael is leading it and they are God's Warriors. God, I AM, is not and never has been a fighter. There have been lesser Gods that have found the Earth an excellent place to take advantage of the people, because the mind-grid created such wonderful illusions that the inhabitants have been looking for the God that they believe left them long ago. God never left you, Beloved Masters. You chose to create illusions of aloneness and abandonment in order to complete you assignment of separation. You have been so convincing in your designs that you have deluded yourselves as well as others.

When we tell you that you are loved, your EGO, that has been your ally in the game, rushes in to assure you that there is no love here. If you don't believe that, just look at how hard life is on Earth. (The Spiritual Warriors are just as mistreated as the military that is forced into battle and then ignored when they can fight no longer.) Dearly Beloved, God knows every hair on your head and considers it holy. God knows every thought of your mind and what is on your heart. God is not a parent that imposes personal will on you without consideration. God's love is beyond the scope of your mind to imagine. The EGOIC mind wants to order God around and demand that God give more because it sees limit everywhere. The Truth is that God would gladly give you more than you can imagine, but that can only happen if you are willing, truly willing to accept it. The intellect knows the right answers and is quick to respond when a question is asked. "Are you willing to receive your highest good?" "Yes, oh yes", the mind replies. "Can you feel within yourself the feelings of that kind of good?" "I know what I want", the EGO responds. "But can you feel the good that is available for you?" "God is supposed to make me happy and give me what I ask for." Now Beloved Masters this is where the problems arise. God's will is for your greatest good and joy. However, because of free will, God cannot impose the good on you despite your resistance. So again we ask, "Are you truly willing to accept the good, all of the good that God has to offer?" The scope of God's good will "blow your mind". The wants of the EGO are minuscule in comparison to the abundance of the Universe. Then the "two-headed dragon EGO" jumps to the other side of the idea and says, "I don't want much. I just want what is mine." Beloved Masters, what is yours is outside the ability of the mind to comprehend. Imagine the greatest, most beautiful, most elegant, most fabulous life that you can. Now multiply that by a billion. Now you are beginning to get the picture of what God has for you.

The planets are now bringing changes that will move the whole Earth out of the dimensional frequency where it has operated for hundreds of thousands of years. You cannot go back. You can mentally and emotionally dig in and refuse to move, but your will can only hold on so long and then you will have to surrender to greater good. Imagine that all the lives that you have lived are like an archeological dig. The stratum of Earth and layers of rock, represent each lifetime. At the bottom of the dig is your true self, bright and shining, shimmering and glowing, awaiting your return through all of the illusions and limits that you have so masterfully created. Now take a crystal shovel (clarity) and begin to dig through the untruths to reach the whole truth of you. You are not going backward in this excavation, but coming home. As the crystalline shovel breaks through the facades of misunderstanding you reveal all that you really are. WHAT A FIND THIS IS!! You are the greatest treasure of all.

The EGO says, “Why should I have to do all of that work? Why can’t God just restore me to perfection?” And so it is, Masters, if you can surrender your erroneous belief systems God’s Love will restore you. You want things to happen quickly and then you want to know exactly what the outcome will be if things do happen quickly. “What will happen if I change? Tell me exactly what that will look like if I allow it?” That and all questions like it are from your EGO. “I want to know who, what, where why, how and when before I make a choice. I want a guarantee that I am going to like everything that happens. I demand that God do what I want!!” So Beloved Masters, what do you want? “I don’t know. You are the Master. You are supposed to know these things. Are you sure you are a Master? I want proof that you are who you say you are!! If you are a Master you should be able to tell me what I want.”

Most Beloved Masters and you are really, truly Masters, also, when you can stop letting your EGO be more powerful than you, when you put God first, you will feel within yourself the confirmation that will answer the EGO’s rhetoric. Your power belongs to you, yet in the illusions of the old order you still seek to make others responsible for all of your woes. “They are making me sick. They are taking my power. They are depriving me of my good.” They can do nothing that you do not invite them to do. Again the EGO jumps forward, shouting, “I would never do those things to myself. Are you crazy?”

Let’s talk about Soul contracts and what the Soul intended versus the interpretation of the mind. You made Soul contracts with many people and the Soul was very clear when the script was written exactly what would be the highest and best outcome. Then the veil of illusions descended and you faced each agreement from the point of opinions and judgments. Now that glorious agreement to heal and overcome looks like punishment and abuse, instead of a challenge to be greater. The anger further clouds the truth and the perceived wounds hurt so much that the idea that anything good could come out of the situation is dismissed totally. The Soul’s intentions are pure and God’s Love is forever. It is time to rise above the deceptions (allow Ascension) and come home to yourself, to God.

The emotions that you will unearth as you excavate into the illusions are fraught with fear. We are with you. God is with you. The EGO asks why God would even care about what is happening to you. I assure you, Beloved Masters, that there is nothing that has happened, is happening or ever will happen to you that goes unnoticed by I AM. You simply have forgotten what you understood without a doubt in the beginning of this journey. You are priceless treasures. Why would you ever be discounted? You chose to play the game in order to feel the abandonment of separation. You discounted yourselves and then you discounted others just to know what it would be like if God ever left you. Illusions, all illusions. None of the pain is real, even though it seems more real than God in the confusion of the changes on the planet.

There is no there, so those who are holding out for some point where they can say, “Now I can resume my activities as though nothing ever happened”, will become progressively more frustrated. The greed, the disregard of human life, the mind that can turn a deaf ear and blind eye to suffering are illusions that have had mighty impact on the planet and the GAME HAS ENDED. It is time to go forward and upward. The only way up and out is inward. This is one of the dichotomies of Spirit moving amidst illusion.

The finite mind simply cannot figure out the next move in a Cosmic creation. The mind was comfortable in limitation and control, but it feels very insecure in the unlimited space of forever. Love is uncontrollable.

And so it is, Beloved Masters, feel our presence in your lives and when the EGO wants to plant seeds of doubt, trust your own connection. That connection is becoming stronger with each passing moment. You are Loved beyond measure and that will become clearer, more obvious as each event moves you into the higher dimensions. Until we meet again, in what ever manner that may be I remain your most humble servant. I AM the Lord St. Germain. Adieu!
